

Prague Summer Nights Opera Gala

“The young singers performed admirably”

“Canadian tenor John Holland shined ... an ardent performer of the great Czech opera composers.”

The Prague Summer Nights Festival was held July 2, 2015 in the Estates Theatre. The gala concert of young singers performed their art in arias from operas by Puccini, Strauss, Mozart, Offenbach, and Dvořák.

Up and Coming Talent Tackles Mozart, Under the Direction of Sherrill Milnes

“Over the top”

“[The] set was a treasure”

Prague residents are sometimes a bit suspicious of classical music events in the summer, with all the bored renditions of “The Four Seasons” and truly amateur travelling groups that often sound no better than a college marching band.

But there are exceptions. A production of Don Giovanni at the Estates Theatre for four shows only, and ending its run July 5, does rely on young talent but also has many professional aspects. Overall, it is a high quality production that showcases a few singers who have the potential to have significant careers on stage, as well as a young but competent orchestra.
